"BY THE TIME YOU SEE THIS
MESSAGE I WILL HAVE BEEN LONG GONE FROM RHEM. IF FATE HAS KEPT YOU A PRISONER HERE I CAN OFFER YOU THE OPPORTUNITY TO RETURN TO YOUR OWN WORLD.
BUT I WILL NEED YOUR HELP.
IN RHEM IS A LETTER I HAVE WRITTEN TO MY BROTHER. IF YOU
HELP ME GET THIS LETTER TO MY BROTHER ZETAIS I CAN HELP YOU GET BACK TO YOUR WORLD."

MONITOR SETTINGS

Windows 95/98/2000/ME:

To change the monitor settings, point the mouse pointer (arrow) to an open, empty part of the screen and RIGHT click.

Select Properties, then select Settings.

Under Color Palette choose High Color [Thousands of Colors (16 bit)]

Under Resolution Palette choose 640x480, then select OK.

If your monitor is set to a resolution of 640x480 but you have hooked up several monitors at the same time, you may be asked to change the resolution. In that case, start the game by clicking Start application with inappropriate monitor setup and again clicking Start application with inappropriate monitor setup.

If it is not possible to set the resolution to 640x480, start the game by clicking Start application with inappropriate monitor setup and again clicking Start application with inappropriate monitor setup.

Windows XP:

To change the monitor settings, point the mouse pointer (arrow) to an open, empty part of the screen and RIGHT click.
Select Properties, then select Settings.

Under Color Palette choose High Color [Thousands of Colors (16 bit)], then select OK.

Select the RHEM icon (RHEM.exe) in the folder RhemE on your hard drive by RIGHT clicking.

Select Properties, then select Compatible.

Choose the option to run at 640x480.

When you launch the game, the window changes automatically.

If your monitor is set to a resolution of 640x480 but you have hooked up several monitors at the same time, it may happen that you will be asked to change the resolution. In that case, start the game by clicking Start application with inappropriate monitor setup and again clicking Start application with inappropriate monitor setup.

If it is not possible to set the resolution to 640x480, start the game by clicking Start application with inappropriate monitor setup and again clicking Start application with inappropriate monitor setup.

Macintosh:

To change the monitor settings, open the Monitor Control Panel.

This item can be found in the Apple Menu under the Control Panels menu item.
Set your monitor to Thousands of Colors (16-bit) and 640x480.

If your monitor is set to a resolution of 640x480 but you have hooked up several monitors at the same time, it may happen that you will be asked to change the resolution. In that case, start the game by clicking Start application with inappropriate monitor setup and again clicking Start application with inappropriate monitor setup.

If it is not possible to set the resolution to 640x480, start the game by clicking Start application with inappropriate monitor setup and again clicking Start application with inappropriate monitor setup.

STARTING RHEM

Insert the RHEM CD into your CD-ROM drive. Make sure your monitor is set to 640x480 and Thousands of Colors (16-bit). Locate the RhemE folder on your hard disk, double-click on it to open it and double-click the RHEM icon (Rhem.exe) in the RhemE folder on your hard drive. To begin a new game, click NEW GAME. To restore a saved game, click LOAD GAME.

REMOVING RHEM

Drag the RhemE folder on your hard drive into the trash and empty the trash.

PLAYING RHEM

When you start the game, the opening movie will run and you will be transported to the land of RHEM via rail car. The car has been commandeered and you must sit tight in one spot, momentarily unable to leave. As the car slowly begins to roam about RHEM, you discover the mysteries of this place little by little. You soon learn that the only possibility of returning home is a letter, consisting of four hidden fragments, which you must not only find but also put together.

	move forward / action
	no action
	use / pick up object
 	move forward + left / right
 	turn left / right 90°
 	turn left / right 180°
 	look up / look down
	move backwards

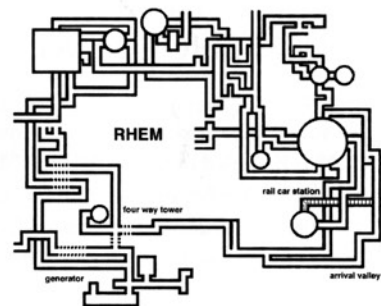

The handcursor will provide direct feedback on where you can go and what you can do. Simply click the mouse to move, turn, move levers, open doors etc. If you want to examine, use, or pick up an object, click on it, or click and drag it.

At the bottom of the screen is a "hidden" inventory of the objects that you are carrying. To access the Menu (Save Game, Load Game, Quit Game) press the spacebar or CTRL+M (Win) / CMD+M (Mac).

The environment consists of individual pictures covering a 360-degree view. In principle, each standpoint has four views.

As you explore the world of RHEM you will uncover its secrets. This is a rich and complex place with its own logic and rules, but where every element and environment has been created with a purpose. Sometimes you may not be able to enter the next phase until you have found certain items, but there are no dead-ends. You may reach a wall, but there is always a way around it. Pay attention to details, collection information, and use logic! Explore the land of RHEM.

Adventure Game of the Year 2003

- Game Industry News

"The Watchmaker is one of the best pure adventure titles released in the last two years, and it is my pick, at this point, for 'Adventure Game of the Year'...a beautiful game to behold, with an excellent and efficient interface and control management scheme. The story is compelling, the puzzles are logical, and the characters are interesting."

- Four Fat Chicks

GotGameEntertainment.com/tonytough

"...stellar plot, excellent humor, and a massive dose of energy and imagination."

-AdventureGamers.com

"...a fantastic blend of earthy humor, bizarre settings, rich graphics and ingenious puzzles...certainly one of the best ever of its type."

- Four Fat Chicks

"...will leave you rocking with laughter...A-"
